The League of Women Voters, a nonpartisan political organization, has fought since 1920 to improve our systems of government and impact public policies through citizen education and advocacy. A grassroots organization, the League's enduring vitality and resonance comes from its unique decentralized structure that works at the local, state, and national levels. LWV Boston is committed to opening the doors of government to all of Boston's citizens. We strive for a representative system of government that is accountable, responsive, and supportive of citizen participation, with membership open to both men and women. Throughout each year, the League provides objective information on critical public policy issues and candidates seeking office, promotes voter service programs, and works to keep the public well-informed on government and social policy issues.

Wendy Murphy, And Justice for Some. (2007).

From Wendy Murphy, JD \(http://wendymurphylaw.com/before-you-step-one-foot-into-family-court-read-this/\):

"A colleague of mine, Anne Stevenson, recently testified before the Connecticut legislature on behalf of good parents and ethical court employees who feared retribution if they spoke up themselves against the corruption, fraud and shady deals in Connecticut's family court system.

The content of her testimony is critically important, and not widely understood, so I agreed to post it here to provide folks with a better understanding of how the "divorce industry" in Connecticut is ruining families financially, and subjecting children to dangerous custody arrangements.

Her proposed changes for reform, set forth below, were provided to the Connecticut legislature but are applicable to other states as well because the problems in Connecticut are systemic in American family courts."

Anne Stevenson on The Howie Carr Show 5:30 PM

Posted on June 6, 2013 by Family Court in America

Anne Stevenson will be the featured guest on WRKO's Howie Carr Show (<http://www.wrko.com/howie>) June 7th at 5:30 PM (time change from 4:00 to 5:30).

Listen to hear – maybe for the first time – about the massive levels of corruption in Connecticut's family court system. We must have asked a hundred times on this blog, "Where's the mainstream media?" Now we know where else the mainstream media outlets weren't.

John Nolte (<http://www.breitbart.com/Columnists/John-Nolte>) of Breitbart.com (<http://www.breitbart.com/Big-Journalism/2013/06/06/Mainstream-Media-Did-Not-break-Even-One-of-Four-Obama-Scandals>) has been keeping score. His headline today reads:

MAINSTREAM MEDIA FAIL TO BREAK EVEN ONE OF FOUR OBAMA SCANDALS

He says:

And do you want to know what makes this realization especially pathetic? In three of the four scandals (the AP being the exception), had our media been less interested in protecting Power and more interested in holding Power accountable, these huge, career-making stories were right there for their taking.

John Nolte on Breitbart.com

I agree and here's why:
